North Side Beautiful »

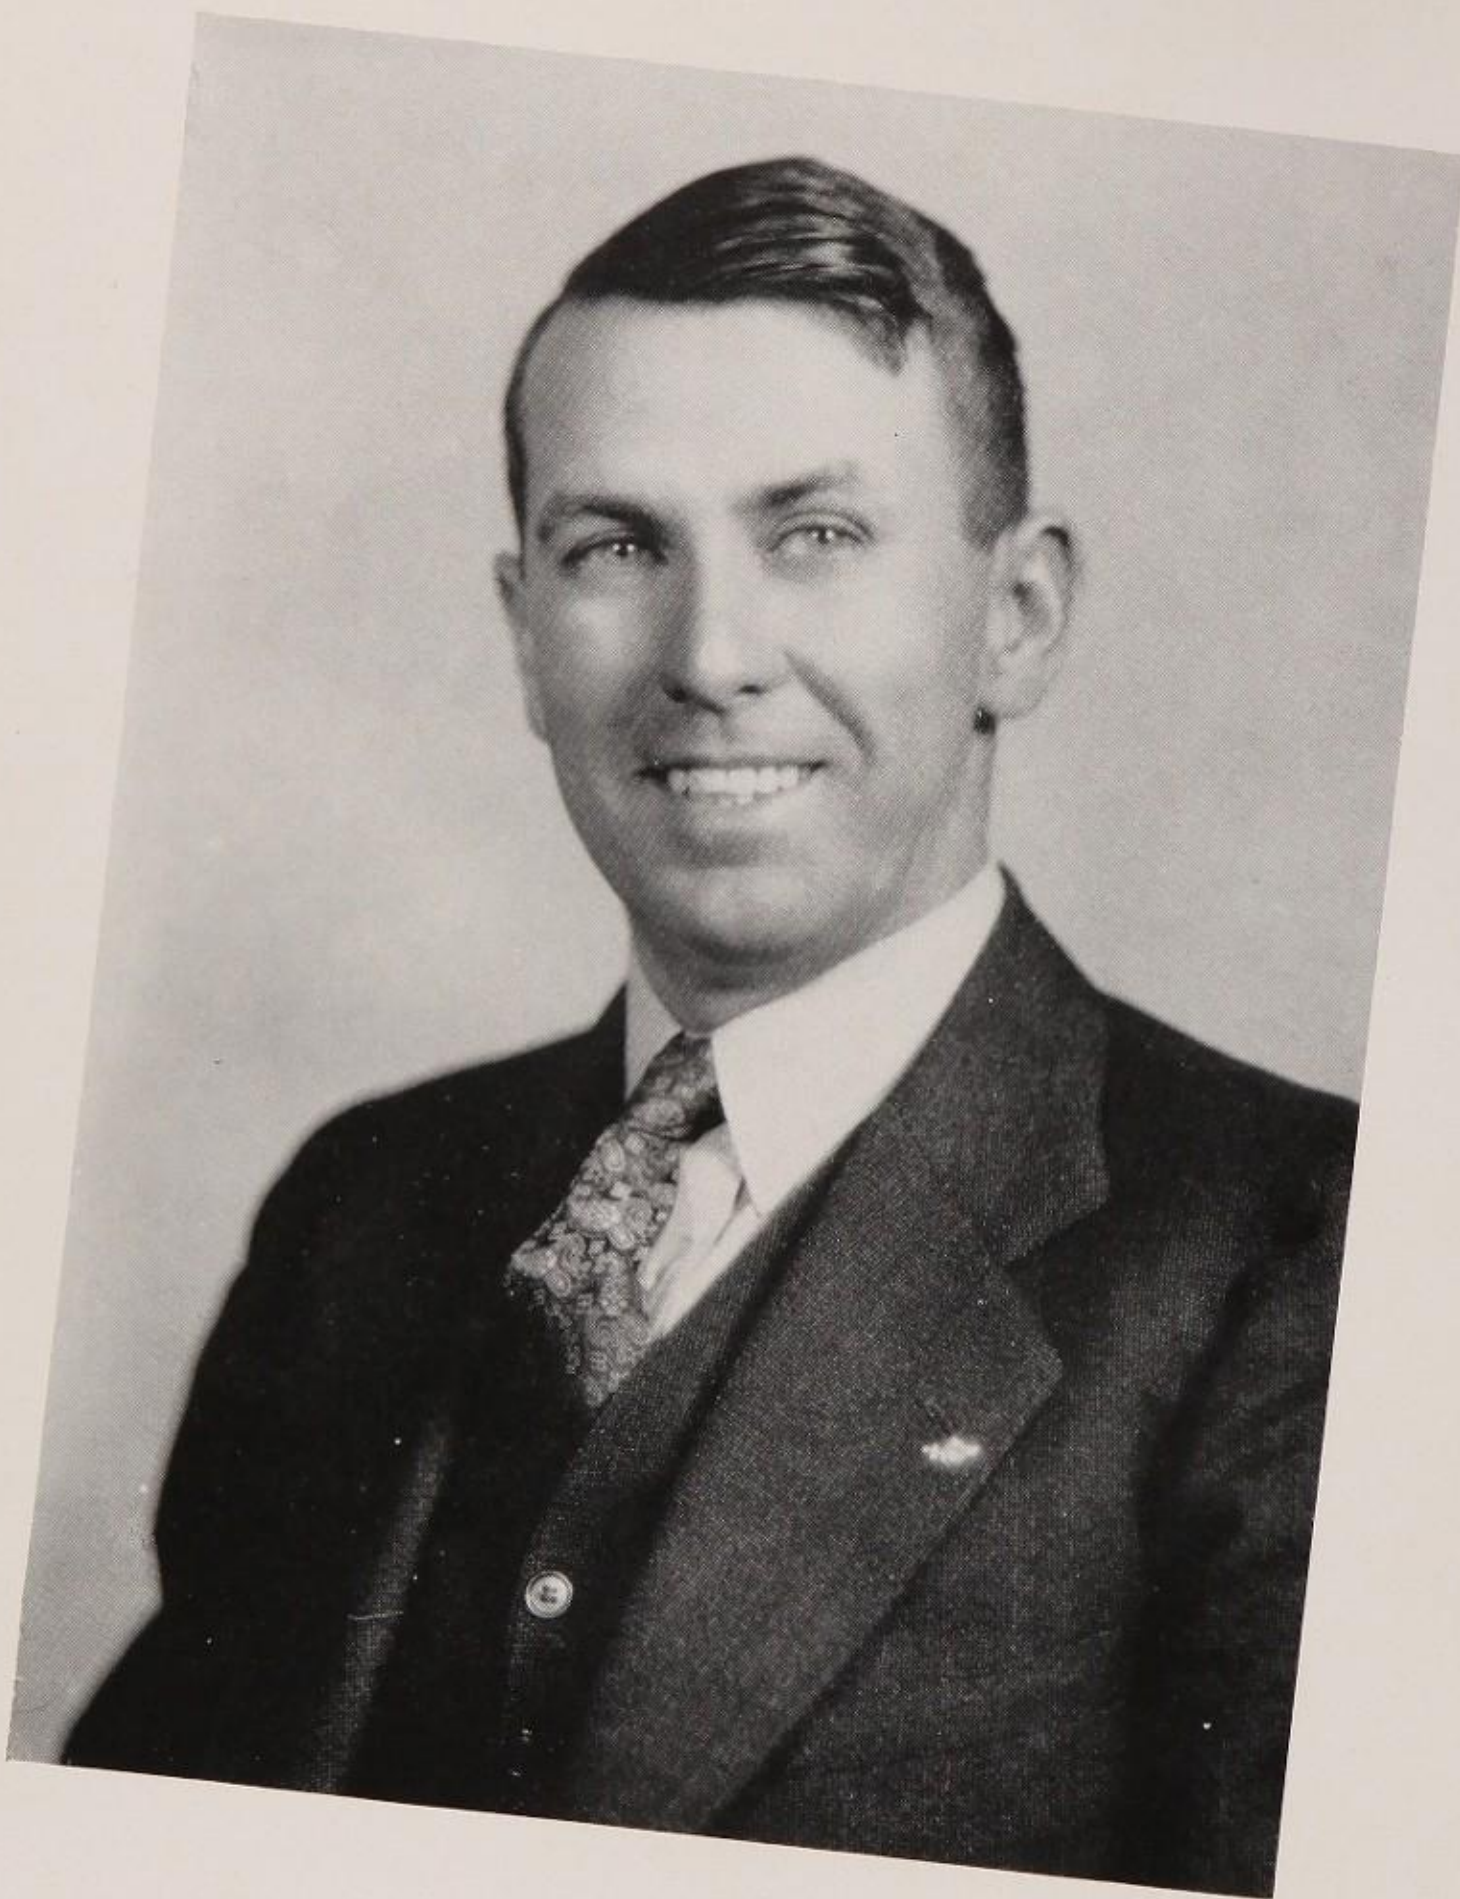

Realizing how much the community means to a school, the editors have tried to accentuate its influence and its lasting beauty through the theme of this the 1939 edition of the HI-WAYS. Since we feel that this is best achieved by use of pictures, we have attempted to give you a photographic glimpse of the business houses, the schools, the homes, and the churches of our community.

ACTIVITIES

While Eleanor Troutman, editor of the Hi-WAYS, supervises, the literary editors, Bootsie Candler, Bruce LeFebre, Martha Dale, and Ethelyn Cantrell, prepare copy for Elva Kelley, copy editor.

Edwin Blackwell, business manager, and Peggy Crosswell, advertising manager, file contracts as Eleanor Clay and Jack Marshall get the athletic section in order. Anna Lane and Karen Norris, joke editors, are planning a good joke on some one.

Katharine Whitney works regularly at the 5th period to get copy ready.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

With brains benumbed and minds awirl
And spirits dead within our hearts
We use our poor ability
And to the school our last will impart.

Mr. Billy Pentecost
Wills his nice school girl complexion
To all the many junior girls
Who regard it with affection.

To Harry Edwards and Shirley Davis
Katharine Whitney bequeaths her grace.
And Eleanor Troutman leaves the annual
To the poor brave soul who will take her place.

Rauschenberg and Pappenheimer
To Jack Smith and Ruby Davis give their name.
And Winifred Cooledge wills her high soprano
To Margaret Hudgins of Choral Club fame.

Stately Emily Anderson
Wills her dignity
To Charlotte Holbrook, who now
Is as poised as she will ever be.

Walter Armistead leaves his seat
In dear Miss Baker's English class
To Walter Armistead, since he knows
It's useless to hope that he will pass.

Marty Sellars wills her Latin scansion
To some benighted Vergil pupil
Who will next year try to get
A knowledge of it through her noodle.

Jackie Spears and Billy Folsom
Gladly leave behind their two kodaks
And Walter Anthony wills to T. J. Saine
His pursued desire to argue well-known facts.

To Mary Whitlock, Julia Fleet
Bequeaths her love of football heroes.
And Barbara Indell gives "Deep Purple"
Back to its composer, Peter de Rose.

To Mister Jimmie Johnson
Ed Van Valkenburg
Leaves his Cadillac firing system
And the daily mishaps that occurred.

Harriette Emerson leaves Eleanor Portwood her fault
Of asking a question when someone else has just asked it.

To all the teachers Laura Borg bequeaths her messy written papers
That quickly would contaminate the waste basket.

It's strange the way that Leckie Mattox has
Of getting more demerits every quarter.
This cursed talent he bequeaths to Edward Crawley
With the hope that he will make his list much shorter.

Weighted down by many medals
Mr. Alfred Green
Bequeaths to Jack McGaughey
His place upon the Rifle Team.

To Frances Longino, Carvel Long
Bequeaths her manicures in Study Hall.
To Dorothy Chapman, Imogene Green
Leaves her passion for people that are tall.

To Dennis Woodall, Kathie Mooy
Bequeaths her interest in all things.
Eloise Meister leaves Betty Copeland
Her thoughtfulness in small things.

Gertrude Spratt bequeaths her last minute French preparations
Margaret Sullivan wills her good record to her sister Anna.
Steve Richards leaves Hugh Newton
His military bearing and his very direct manner.

Marjorie Steacy bequeaths her love of dramatics
William Travis leaves his permanent wave
Marion Lagerquist bestows his mumps
Muriel Stanley leaves all the time she's tried to save.

To no one in particular
R. M. is left by Kitty Lester.
Martha Dale leaves Betty Burress
The mind with which the saints have blessed her.

Sam Hodges wills his Student Council
To all North Fulton teachers
And Ottis Rary leaves John Westmoreland
His seat among the Cracker bleachers.

Earline Chesney wills to Christine Paris
Her well known songs both sweet and hot.
Ann Artley leaves to Betty Cogburn
The ease with which she says, "Oh, I forgot!"

Betty Jean Buntin bestows her broad knowledge
Of chemistry mixtures to Barbara Blick
And Montague Boyd bestows his blond beauty
Upon Morgan Patillo and Richard Hardwick.

To Martha Beck and Harriette Johnson
Mary Jane Campbell bequeaths her fish
While Dot Estes wills to Helen Hackney
Her striking resemblance to Tizzie Lish.

To Henry Green and Miller Gowen
James Tyree leaves his love for all the women
And Charlotte Smith wills Jessie Shephard
Her skill in sewing, cutting, and in hemming.

Frank Norris, along with Dorothy Launius,
Will their profound silence to Richard Horsey.
Ann Walker leaves to Frances Leake
Her admiring love of Tommy Dorsey.

Warren Fleming leaves his job
As manager of the boys' track team
To Arthur Montgomery, if he promises to keep
All the shorts and so forth clean.

Robert Williams leaves Mr. Dykes
His lovely pink and flaming hair.
To Mary Bloxton, Larue Mizell
Bequeaths the inevitable flower in her hair.

Since she's made the honor roll once in four whole years
Foster Adair wills everyone her most amazing ability.
Jack Marshall bequeaths to the athletic teams
His quickness and agility.

To the basketball team of 1940
Dorothy Hunt and Eleanor Clay
Will their victories—this year hoped for,
Their nimble feet and skillful play.

Bootsie Candler wills the song, "My Buddy"
To Helen Taulman, to make her heart throbs stop.
Hinton Harris bequeaths to Warren Tiller,
All the wood shavings he has left around the shop.

Jeanette Johnson bequeaths her locker to Charlotte Heard.
A sweet smile is willed to all by Frances Davie.
Edna Bowden leaves her typewriter to Helen Kroll.
Margaret Barrett, her freakish hair dress to Annie Mae Lee.

To Mary Tyree, Betty Hodges
Bequeaths her R. B. Dorman
And Richard Kelly leaves his dimples
To handsome Harry Norman.

Ann Milburn leaves her dramatic translation
Of Vergil to Beverly Adams
While Katherine Tucker bestows her good nature
On light-hearted Eleanor Lanham.

Margaret Crenshaw bestows her good figure
On Annelle Baker and Muriel Heden
And Billy Sims leaves Richard Lamb
Some advice on women he'll be needin'.

Laura Wallace and Kate Westmoreland
Leave their long-enduring friendship
To all those aunts and wives and uncles
Who suffer now in kinship.

To Bobby Paden, Charles Westbrook leaves
The errands in his trusty Ford.
Clare Hewlett wills to Ann Crowley
Her look of being always bored.

Love of fun and fun of love
Are left by Julianne Perreault
And whom does she choose to leave them to,
None other than Olin Rambo.

Kay Young refuses to part with her fluttering hands,
Otherwise known as the dance of St. Vitus
But it may be that we are mistaken,
It may be only jitterbug-itus.

Gus Richmond bequeaths his remarkable knowledge
Of Trig to Miss Isabel Dew
And Josie Lou Duggan leaves Helen Hudgins
Her favorite piece of gum to chew.

Her happy-go-lucky spirit
Is left to all by Latrelle Hoffman
And Florence Rucker bequeaths
Her library work to Cathryn Kaufman.

Edgar Clapp
Good chap
Though a sap.
Joy Clough
Powder puff
That's enough.

Ellen Lennox and Nena Payne
Will their beer jackets to Peggy Prater.
Frank McKenzie bequeaths his phone number
To Ann Carter, with a wish that he might date'er.

Lavonia Jenkins and Frances Ball
Leave to Dorothy Burdette their cafeteria work.
And Sara Clement wills Jean Lockridge
Her job as assistant office clerk.

Kitty Lou Mote bestows that remarkable coincidence
That makes her stay at home on test days
Upon Miss Alice Neal
Who also takes a few rest days.

Lillie May Crawford bequeaths to Virginia Boynton
Her morning arrivals at eight twenty-nine.
And wills to her the secret formula
For being neither quite tardy nor exactly on time.

Grace Watson and Paul Gray Turner
Leave Eleanore Winecoff their big brown eyes.
Elinor Lowe wills Elizabeth Pinkard
Her small and shapely size.

Jane Bright, Jane Wall
Jayne Williamson, Jane Ball
With such a name in common
Bequeath their luck to all.

To Haddon Johnson, Franklin Potter
Bequeaths his hostile attitude
And Cordelia Salter wills Bunny Stribling
Her excessive latitude.

Peggy Echols and Georgia Dickson
Will to Nancy Emery and Doris Speer
Their ducts popping gum in Study Hall
Right under the teacher's ear.

To Lillian Winship and Marjorie Thomas
Marian Knowles bequeaths her graceful walk.
And Esther Seddon leaves Betty Clark
Her inclination toward ceaseless talk.

Jane Lawless leaves to Carol Knight
Her love for fashion and for styles.
Lillian Reynolds wills Morie Burns
Her knack of waddling down the aisles.

Susan Huguley and Harpo Marx
Otherwise known as Charlie Lynch
Bequeath their poise to Polly Rushton
She'll need it badly in a tight pinch.

Karen leaves the Senior Play,
Susanne Spence her love for passing fads,
Anna leaves her giggling laugh,
While Peggy leaves ads.

Beauty-loving Wilburn Davis
Weeps a little as he wonders
To whom he'll leave his precious Sarah
This unsolved problem still he ponders.

"Love 'em and leave 'em," says Jimmy Adams
This motto he leaves to Fred Connell.
And Hollis Hope bestows his good nature
On all who will cherish and keep it well.

Peggy Watkins and Mildred White
Will their Southern accents to Vivian Leigh.
Charles Wycoff leaves the entire school
The motion pictures he didn't see.

Frances Wing and Opal Earley
With all the girls their most peculiar beauty.
Edwin Blackwell bequeaths to all the boys
The way he sees and does his duty.

Bill Dillon leaves Trenton Tunnell
His incessant study hall clatter,
To Helen Wyckoff, Mary Armour Hale
Bequeaths her gift of feminine chatter.

Edward Selfe and Paul Nichols
Will their six feet four
To George LaFitte and Elgin Price
Who'd like a few feet more.

George Lathem bequeaths his mechanical talents
As shown by the constant work on his car.
Jason Tuggle leaves Drewry Stynchcomb his golf scores
Which are always one hundred over par.

To Ann Outler, Margaret Clippinger
Bequeaths the hours spent in study.
Byron Lee wills his general nonsense
To all who think they are as nutty.

Morgan Anderson leaves to John Wallace
The zeros he often got in English class.
Mildred Meier leaves Lucia Peeples
A brand new car, tanked full of gas.

Billie Stieghorst leaves her baton
To skillful Kathryn Witt.
Typing ribbons bequeathed Miss Newberry
By Margene Stephens and Frances Pitts.

Dan Cosgrove leaves to Mr. Gibson
His daily gossip with the girls.
Mary Partain wills to Mrs. McCulloch
Her beloved red and shining curls.

Mary Alice Roane and Boyd Thomas
Leave Mr. Lewis their loud and boisterous ways.
Virginia Richardson bestows upon Jean Young
Her recent well known boy craze.

Ann Griffith and Raymond Parker
Leave Nannie Johnson their eternal incoherence.
Joe Neel leaves Phillip Shaefer his week's allowance
Or rather, its sudden disappearance.

To Babs Broward, Martha Blalock
Wills her executive ability.
Elva Kelly leaves Evelyn Sikes
Her composure and tranquillity.

Wanda Hamby leaves her perfect record in attendance
For four whole years to Donald Benton.
Benteen McDonald wills all the boys
The cell next door to his in San Quentin.

Gene Broadwell leaves his master mind
To all who are in need of it
And Neal Irby leaves his dog
To those who can figure out the breed of it.

With a heart filled full of woe
Sadly Sara Vandegriff
Wills her precious little Junior
To any teacher who would appreciate the gift.

Mary Carter bestows her enthusiasm
Upon Louise Lamarr
While Carolyn Hughes bequeaths her ladylike manners
To quiet Virginia Barr.

Jimmie MacNaughton bequeaths to all the freshman boys,
The gang of freshman girls he assembles at recesses.
Dot Baylor leaves to Angelique de Golian
The way she gets herself into so many messes.

Wallace Clayton wills Ralph Meeks the many privileges
That go with being Officer of the Day.
Mary Craft wills Betty Ann Mayfield
Her talk about the glorious date that she had yesterday.

To Doris Williams, Elizabeth McMullen
Bequeaths her eternal fidgets.
Lillian Shortley, Elaine Heden and Mary Rudrauff leave their size
To all the circus midgets.

Ralph Ayers bequeaths his trumpet
To all the band and Mr. Jackson.
Barbara Morton wills her wardrobe
Back to Davison-Paxon.

Nancy Fridell leaves Marion Fisk
The good excuse that asthma always makes.
Codell Read wills Ruby Brown
The numerous holidays that she takes.

Bruce Le Febre bestows the ardent notes
He wrote in English class to Anna Lane
Upon Miss Pauline Baker, who then thought
That they were meant for Mary Jane.

Georgie Porgie Chipman
And that Doremas lad

Leave their too-abundant humor
To the worn-out teachers they have had.

Virginia Bell and Gloria Clark
Leave their love of study to Dick Gray
While Evelyn Brown bestows her dignity
Upon Miss Zaida Clay.

To all the teachers at North Fulton
Ernest Bentley makes this bequest:
"If you want rest from grading tests—
Then don't give tests and get your rest."

To all the fans of Kay Kyser
Ralph Carroll leaves his grand swing band
And Warren Pollard bequeaths to Luther Rabun
His adoration of Sally Rand.

Arthur Burdett wills that awful sinking feeling
That he gets when Miss De Golian is near
To plague and worry Tommy Blackwell
Who knows it now too well, we fear.

Helen Jones leaves to Peggy Miles
Her way with all the boys or vice versa.
Joyce Estes wills Eugenia Neel
Her friends at Auburn, Tech, and Mercer.

Grace and Ralph Hardman
Bequeath their seats on the bus
To those who wait for them the longest,
Get there first and make the loudest fuss.

Hubert Martin leaves his riding habits
Mildred Thompson and Adele Stroup, the typing time tests
R. M. Lee wills his feminine admirers
Two in particular, above all the rest.

As author of this wretched mess
Thankful am I that it's done,
That nevermore I'll have to worry
About riming a word or making a pun.

Now, with final resolution,
We commend the school to you,
We commend its spirits and its ideals;
Keep them in your hearts.

ETHELYN CANTRELL.
MARTHA DALE.

PROPHECY

The Scene: A bench in Piedmont Park.

The Time: Late Spring, 1955.

The Characters: A tramp and a policeman. The tramp is stretched out on the bench with a newspaper over his face. A cop walks in swinging his night stick, hitting him on his feet.

POLICEMAN: Hey, what do you think this is, study hall? Move along, bum.

TRAMP: Don't bother me, I'm contented—don't you flatfeet have anything else to do but get after poor guys like me?—Well fan my brow—if it ain't Bruce LeFebre!

BRUCE: Leckie Mattox! You old so-and-so—how are you, anyway?

LECKIE: Well, I never thought a swell guy like you would turn out to be a cop.

BRUCE: Well, I always thought a guy like you would turn out to be a—well, Leckie, when did you quit shooting craps for a living?

LECKIE: Oh, I gave that up for picking pockets over at the Atlanta World's Exposition—it's much more profitable.

BRUCE: What about that Fair? My job keeps me from going to see it—is it any good?

LECKIE: Boy, it's a whiz—ole Edwin Grover Whalen Blackwell is the president of the Exposition, you know, and he's done a colossal job.

BRUCE: So I hear. I did take a night off to go down on the midway. You'd never guess who the fat lady is—yep, Joyce Estes. And you know what, Ed Van Valkenburg has finally overcome his timidity and is the barker for Hollis Hope and Hinton Harris' burlesque show. That's some show, too. Elaine Heden, Dorothy Launius and Dan Cosgrove are the strip tease artists and Ann Milburn is the star fan dancer.

LECKIE: I'll have to go to see that. By the way, those murals on the buildings at the Fair are mighty pretty, and do you know who painted them? Virginia Richardson, our old classmate.

BRUCE: Speaking of old classmates, did you know that Wallace Clayton and Byron Lee have organized a professional girls' football team? Some of the stars on the team are Margaret Barrett, Dorothy Baylor, Margene Stephens, Mildred White and Eloise Meister.

LECKIE: And that ain't all, either. Our North Fulton classmates have come up in the world as far as sports go. Raymond Parker is a big wrestling promoter and he's arranged a match between Man Mountain Frank McKenzie and Killer Billy Sims for tonight at Madison Square Garden. Wish I could see that.

BRUCE: Yeah, and what about old Jack Marshall—he's a cross country runner. He would have won at the Olympic games, but Emily Anderson was in the stands waving at him and he couldn't keep his mind off of her.

LECKIE: Say, Bruce, did you hear about Gus Richmond? I wouldn't mind being in that boy's shoes. He's gone to India and has the world's largest harem. Some of his favorites are Mary Alice Roane, Evelyn Brown, Betty Jean Buntin, Edna Bowden and Mildred Meier.

BRUCE: Speaking of women, a couple of our old friends are doing pretty well for themselves. Nena Payne and Margaret Sullivan are famous horticulturists and tree surgeons. The name of their firm is "Information Trees."

LECKIE: Yeah, and two other girls that were in our class ain't doing so bad either. Ellen Lennox and Ann Walker run a Lonely Hearts Bureau. They brought together Mary Armour Hale and Ottis Rary, who are now happily married.

BRUCE: Leckie, have you heard about Franklin Potter and Frank Norris? They've discovered a marvelous formula for making gold. They turn out several tons a day—why they're the two richest men in the world. Well, we can say we knew them when . . .

LECKIE: Speaking of gold, that's pretty bad about Joy Clough. You know she's on trial for hoarding gold. She's said to have the largest private collection of fraternity pins in the world, but those guys from Washington got wise to her.

BRUCE: Now that you mention Washington, that reminds me, do you realize that Sam Hodges is running for president of the United States? The only planks in his platform are honesty and allegiance to the flag. I guess he can't go wrong there.

LECKIE: Yeah, I heard something about that, and who do you suppose is going to redecorate the White House for him? None other than those famous interior decorators, Frances Davie, Adele Stroup, Charlotte Smith and Frances Pitts.

BRUCE: Say, you know what? Our old pal Jimmy Adams is the newly appointed fire chief of Atlanta's fire department. He's renowned for his bravery in fighting fire and going through smoke.

LECKIE: Why sure, that boy had a lot of experience at North Fulton going through smoke at recess.

BRUCE: Yeah, well have you heard about Dorothy Hunt, Laura Borg, Barbara Morton and Myrtle Harrison? They're operating a beauty shop which has a worldwide reputation for unusual coiffures.

LECKIE: Did I tell you that Ann Artley and Frances Wing are starting a drive for a three months' session of school and nine months' vacation? They also advocate a one-day week for high school kids.

BRUCE: You don't say. Say, look Leckie, what ever happened to Anna Lane? You know I always had a soft spot in my heart for her. I still have those notes she used to write to me in Miss Baker's English IV class—tied up in pale pink ribbon.

LECKIE: Well, don't take it too hard, old boy, but Anna is finally getting married next week. After years of sitting at home she finally decided that Paul Turner was the one for her.

BRUCE: I suppose into each life some rain must fall. Speaking of hard luck, we boys on the police force have been working overtime.

LECKIE: How's that, Bruce?

BRUCE: Why, Leckie, haven't you heard that the most dreaded women gangsters in the United States are thought to be in the vicinity of Atlanta?

LECKIE: Yes, I believe I did hear about that. Who are they?

BRUCE: You'd never guess—four of our old classmates—Margaret Clippinger, Martha Dale, Katherine Tucker, and Elva Kelly. I knew those vandalistic girls would come to no good end. Why, they practically have a monopoly on dope smuggling, kidnapping and law breaking.

LECKIE: Boy, that's terrible! Speaking of the police force reminds me, I heard the other day that Jimmy MacNaughton and William Dillon have started a campaign for "Safety for Atlanta Pedestrians." They've cut the speed limit from 25 miles an hour down to 10 miles an hour.

BRUCE: Yeah, how about that? Remember Grace and Ralph Hardman? Well, they're running a hot dog stand up at Buckhead and Jeannette Johnson and Mildred Thompson are waitresses.

LECKIE: Buckhead really has put itself on the map. Have you been up to the new Buckhead Night Club? Ralph Carroll's Swing Band is playing there during the Fair. He's been crowned the new King of Swing, you know. Jason Tuggle is still his first saxophonist.

BRUCE: No sir, I couldn't miss that. I went up to see them the other night. I could certainly go for those two vocalists of his. They're the best torch singers I've ever seen and they're none other than Cordelia Salter and Marie Pappenheimer. Did you recognize them?

LECKIE: I certainly did. They really were in the groove, weren't they? Say, Bruce, I see by the paper here about a sequel to "Gone With the Wind"—"Vanished With the Breeze," by Julia Fleet. And will you get a load of this? Jack Spears and Billy Folsom, those great Hollywood picture producers, are making a movie of it. Well, well, who do you suppose are taking the leads? None other than Jane Lawless, the biggest sensation since Hedy Lamarr, and Montague Boyd, who is rapidly replacing Tyrone Power. Madame Carvel Long is going to be the costumer and Boyd Thomas is taking care of the Southern accent department for the picture.

BRUCE: Boy, I wouldn't miss that picture for anything. I heard something about it over Joe Gabby Neel's gossip program the other night. You know he's the successor to Walter Winchell.

LECKIE: Say, I heard him the other night and he reviewed a new book by Elizabeth McMullen and Dot Estes, those great authorities on economic conditions. Their new book is called "From Rags to Riches—or, You Too Can Be a Relief Worker."

BRUCE: I must read that—which reminds me, Steve Richards, who ranks with Washington and Lee, has just written a book on "Military Tactics" which has sold fourteen million copies. Say, Leckie, what ever happened to Mary Carter?

LECKIE: Why, Bruce, she's still trying to decide where she's going to college. Now I'll ask you one. What's old Arthur Burdett doing now?

BRUCE: You'd never guess. He and Ethelyn Cantrell are married and Arthur is Atlanta's best street car conductor, and Ethelyn is taking in washing on the side.

LECKIE: Well, did you know that Jane Wall is following in the footsteps of her father and is a woman dentist? She pulled a tooth of mine the other day and so help me I didn't even know it.

BRUCE: Wonderful thing, this painless dentistry. Here's the pay off though, Leckie: Billy Pentecost and Karen Norris are happily married. Karen was overheard the other day telling her small daughter that if she wasn't good Ernest Bentley, the old "boogy man," was going to get her. The poor child hasn't come to yet.

LECKIE: Say, Bruce, there weren't many people at the Fair today. I wonder why?

BRUCE: You mean you didn't hear? Why, they're all over at North Fulton. Gene Broadwell is finally getting out.

LECKIE: Not really! I never thought I'd see the day. Speaking of North Fulton, did you know that Marty Sellers is head of the Latin department and Lillian Shortley is head of the French department?

LECKIE: Yes, and Kitty Lou Mote, Josie Lou Duggan and Imogene Greene are home economics teachers at North Fulton.

BRUCE: While I'm thinking about it, did you know that Kate Westmoreland, Laura Wallace and Marion Knowles are writing an advice to the lovelorn column that appears in all the United States leading newspapers?

LECKIE: Why, sure. I read it every day. But let's get back to our old pals that are teachers out at North Fulton. R. M. Lee, George Lathem and Warren Fleming teach "math" out there and each has a class in "trig." And Morgan Anderson and Grace Watson are teachers in North Fulton's new marriage course.

BRUCE: And that ain't all. Ann Griffith and Peggy Watkins are running North Fulton's first kindergarten.

LECKIE: Gee whiz, the old class of '39 surely has stuck to North Fulton. Muriel Stanley and Wanda Hamby are basketball coaches out there and Opal Earley is the school secretary.

BRUCE: Neal Irby certainly has done a wonderful thing for North Fulton. He has a recreational center down in Florida where the tired and weary student of North Fulton may get away from it all. Ed Selfe is the tennis instructor and Eleanor Clay is the horseback riding instructor at the resort.

LECKIE: Speaking of schools, Bruce, George Chipman, James Tyree and Charles Westbrooke are running America's first male finishing school.

BRUCE: You don't say! You know, when I was telling you about the midway at the Fair a while back I forgot to mention that Billie Stieghorst is the acrobatic star over there. And Harriette Emerson and Barbara Indell have never parted from each other. They are doing a daring tight-rope act along with those two other inseparables, Sara Clements and Sara Vandergriff. They call themselves "The Flying Foursome."

LECKIE: That reminds me, Bruce, if you get a chance to go to the Fair again don't fail to eat at that Atlanta World's Fair Cafeteria. Who do you suppose run it? Frances Ball and Lavonia Jenkins.

BRUCE: I'll do that, Leckie. By the way, have you heard about Alfred Green, Atlanta's playboy? I got the grapevine that he's to be Barbara Hutton's ninth husband.

LECKIE: Bruce, you should read Larue Mizell's new book by the name of "If You Go WEST, You Can't Go Wrong." She says she got her theme from Horace Greeley, but you can't kid me.

BRUCE: Speaking of fame and fortune, Latrelle Hoffman, Caroline Hughes, Mary Rudrauff, Earline Chesney are the first women that have ever been allowed to join the Vienna Choir Boys and Miss Coco Nertz Crenshawvitch is the prima donna who has just recently popularized the "Shaving Song" from "The Barber of Seville."

LECKIE: Well, while we're on the subject of fame and fortune, Lillie May Crawford and Edgar Clapp are the inventors of a most remarkable alarm clock which enables one to rise from bed at nine o'clock and reach his destination at eight-thirty.

BRUCE: That's wonderful! How about old Walter Anthony and William Travis? They own a large company that manufactures cut-glass fly swatters and crocheted bicycles, and Elinor Lowe and Codell Reed are their private secretaries. They say the company's making money hand over fist.

LECKIE: Say, Bruce, while I was bumming around in New York I ran into Helen Jones and she's New York's most exclusive ballroom dancing teacher. She told me about some more of our old classmates that live in New York. Georgia Dickson and Susanne Huguley are models for Schiaparelli. And Lillian Reynolds is New York's most eminent child psychologist.

BRUCE: Yeah, and Wilburn Davis is jerking sodas at the Waldorf-Astoria. But that ain't all. Due to their perpetual smiles, Foster Adair, Ralph Ayers and Nancy Fridelle are models for toothpaste ads.

LECKIE: Well, old Richard Kelly and Charles Lynch are working in Saks, Fifth Avenue. They're salesmen of ladies' lingerie! Say, Bruce, whatever happened to Peggy Crosswell?

BRUCE: Peggy? Why she's running a campaign for the abolition of jitterbugs.

LECKIE: Gee, those girls in our class sure are doing O. K. Florence Rucker is an archaeologist and is digging under Stone Mountain, and Winifred Cooledge is the librarian at Princeton.

BRUCE: I saw in the paper that Mary Craft, who thinks marriage is so pleasant, is in Reno divorcing her eleventh husband, Charles Wyckoff. Now she's got her cap set for that pleasant Benteen McDonald.

LECKIE: Speaking of the boys again, they tell me that Hubert Martin was recently elected National President of the Phi Beta Kappa. He always was an intellectual cuss.

BRUCE: Gee, the old gang sure has gone places. Did you know that Paul Nichols is now a world-famous Shakespearean actor? He's at the Erlanger this week.

LECKIE: Yeh, I know. I saw him last night. And guess who I met at the play—Walter Armistead, Ogden Doremus, and Warren Pollard. They're running a chemical laboratory now, and their amazing laboratory technique has revolutionized the scientific world.

LECKIE: Well, I met some of our old friends, too. Jane Bright told me that she and Gloria Clark and Virginia Bell own a successful funeral home. People are just dying to get in the place. I saw Mary Partain, and she's president of the Society for the Prevention of Calling Red-headed People "Red." Marjorie Steacy is vice-president, and Katherine Lester is secretary. Robert Williams is treasurer of this worthy organization.

BRUCE: That sounds O. K. Do you know that Dolly Hewlett has a small daughter who just won a nationwide spelling contest?

LECKIE: Listen, Bruce, you remember Georgia Rauschenberg?

BRUCE: Sure, she won fame in the WATL scholarship contest back when she was a senior at North Fulton. What about her?

LECKIE: Well, her voice had such a magnetic appeal to children that she became "Aunt Georgia" of radioland. Her bedtime stories are eagerly awaited by thousands of kiddies all over the country.

BRUCE: Well, what do you know about that? Say, Leck, did you hear that Julianne Perrault, Gertrude Spratt, and Esther Seddon are studying to be trained nurses?

LECKIE: Yeah, I heard that. And did you know that Martha Blalock is a very efficient Tallulah Falls promoter?

BRUCE: Well, Leckie, old Marion Lagerquist and Kathie Mooy have married and gone back to their native land—Holland. They're raising tulips and building windmills.

LECKIE: A lot of the old gang have gone off. Jane Williamson has gone back to Marietta, and she's the town's first female dog-catcher.

BRUCE: Remember Mary Jane Campbell? Well she's a pen-Quin, oops pardon me, a penguin trainer.

LECKIE: Well, Bruce, here's one that'll knock you cold. The other day when I was over at North Fulton I found Bootsie Candler still sitting in Miss Baker's English class embroidering towels for the Home Economics Apartment.

BRUCE: Doggone! You know, Leckie, they tell me that Eleanor Troutman is editor-in-chief of "True Confessions," and Katharine Whitney is the co-editor. Most of the material is sent in by Betty Hodges, Peggy Echols, and Jane Ball. They get the stuff from their love lives.

LECKIE: Cuss my bones! Our old classmate Katherine Young decided she couldn't be happy anywhere except at Emory, and the boys at the institution decided they certainly couldn't be happy without Kay, so she has been given a life contract as house mother for the entire school. You can see her on the campus any time with thirty-five or ninety of her favorites flocked around her.

BRUCE: The old bunch sure have done all right by themselves.

LECKIE: Yep, they sure have. Say, Bruce, let's run over to the Fair and see if we can find any of them.

BRUCE: Swell, let's go!

(Both go off.)

THROUGH THE KEYHOLE With Peggy Peeps

RIOT IN CHEMISTRY LAB

There was a young chemist from Glass,
Who was pride of Miss Cooper's fine
class,

On his body so placid
He spilt Nitric Acid,
And now he's a thing of the past.

—And we do mean Ralph Ayres.

Bruce's technique in Act 3, Scene 2, is getting noticeably better and better.
Looks like practice on the sly.

Not only Winifred, but all the girls, look forward to Julian's (Harrison of course) car.

Wonder how long the burns on Bootsie's hands will last? (You all know Buddy had quite a visit here in April.)
Between Buddy's hand-holding and her
Home Ec. cooking she's a wreck.

North Fulton's Most Handsome, we hear, prefers track to acting. Also, what is the attraction at the Mattox's house?
Certainly not Leckie.

Who's the swankiest looking person we know? Why, Eleanor Troutman, of course, whizzing around town in her gray Cheve Coupe.

We wonder if Chipman and Patty (Bardwell) were really taking moonlight golf lessons the other night.

Conversation of the week:

Jack: Snooks, do you have a boy friend?

Snooks: No—I have a dog.

We have heard that soon there will be another Buddy in the Taulman family.

We wonder where Dick Gray went in those 3,000 miles that he could not account for on the recent highway quiz.

Who are Buddy D.'s two heart throbs?
We hear he put up both of them for his sponsor so he would not get it in the neck.

All the barbers are going to be able to retire now that the Red Shirts have had their annual haircut.

Who's responsible for that dreamy look in Peggy's (C.) eyes. She always Spen—cer time thinking about him.

It crushed Captain(?) Earnest "The Vampire" Bentley to be left out of the military picture because some vandal had stolen his hat. He immediately dashed down town and got a lawyer to demand his rights. Today Earnest has his hat and Ralph (C.) has a black eye.

Flash . . . Intimate notes from our little black book.

What male lead in the Senior Play gave Emily A. a rush at the recent Chi Phi dance? Umm—another knot in Cupid's Bow.

Wanted—All Willies call Miss Theodoshia Curtis, The Charm School.

Romance over the test tubes:

Who in the world is Fleet's new flame?
We've heard it's Paul Powell. Umm—
I'm jealous.

For the benefit of all students, we wish
Jack Smith would write his notes to Torrance Chalmers in English instead of French.

Is it the horses at the Horse Show that calls Clay to Columbus every week-end?

FLASH! FLASH!
NEWS OF THE WEEK!

We have no news to report about
Anna Lane.

We have heard that Leckie (Mattox)—
(censored).

Pop! Pop! Smack! Smack! Don't get excited, that isn't a tap dancer going on at the Senior Play practice. It's just Bootsie enjoying her gum.

We wonder what it is that Ann Milburn has that the other girls haven't that charms Dan Cosgrove in Public Speaking class?

Why is Edwin (Blackwell) looking so skinny lately? We know—he had to sit between Anna and Kay at the dinner party and was so worried about his table manners that he couldn't eat anything.

We wonder who broke the spell of the Christmas Pageant? Perhaps we can find out in West's history—that is if Miss Yeargan won't tell us.

Bruce and Anna wonder which one of their notes Miss Baker read.

Martha—Sure, I know Artesian well.

Heard in Mr. O'Rear's class:

To find the number of square feet in a room you multiply the room by the number of feet.

A triangle is a circle with three corners to it.

A circle is a round line with no kinks in it, joined up so as not to show where it began.

Preparatory to his leaving America he wrote and asked his brothers to meet him at the station, and upon his arrival at the home town, was met by two bearded men whom he had difficulty in recognizing.

"Why the beards?" he asked.

"Dinna ye remember, Donald?" replied they. "You took the razor with you."
